Bob Gibson OBE had been a leading character in Teesside politics for over three decades.

He came into politics through the Stockton Trades Council, before being elected in Parkfield Division to Cleveland County Council. But it was Stockton Council where his real passion lay, gaining a seat in 1983 in the Newtown Ward for Labour where he remained until 2015. He became Labour Group Leader in 1989.

In 1990 Bob took over as Stockton Council Leader continuing until May 2007, when he demonstrated that his priority and passions were for the borough's benefit rather than his own personal prestige by agreeing to step aside and hand the role of Leader of the Council to the Conservative Party in an historic 'power-sharing' agreement.

He confidently led the Council through the turbulent local government re-organisation in the 1990's to achieve the status of a Unitary Authority (1 April 1996). He was completely undaunted by the challenge of being a single tier authority with responsibility for all local government functions within its area. In the years that followed his determination and energy helped to drive the Council forward in its pursuit of excellence in every area of service, leading to a variety of 'Best value' awards.

He personally led the pursuit of winning a £37.5m from a City Challenge bid for Central Stockton. With the additional cash levered in it meant a £150m investment in the area over five years.

He had fulfilled a number of important roles which had shaped the direction and future of the people living in his former Ward, the Borough and the region such as:-

- driving forward the provision of a single point of access for local residents to access vital services, agencies and programmes – leading to the creation of Newtown Community and Resource Centre.
- Labour Group Leader (April 1989 - being a member and chair of a number of council committees (including Appeals & Complaints, Audit, Cabinet, Corporate Directors Remuneration Panel, Executive Scrutiny, Housing and Community Safety, Planning, Standards)

- establishing and leading Stockton Renaissance Partnership Board – bringing together a cross-section of stakeholders (from the community, private and public sectors) to help drive forward the development of the borough to achieve the aspirations of its ‘2020 vision’ to revitalise the area;
- chairman of the Association of North East Councils and the North East Assembly;
- a member of the Local Government Association (Teesside Branch, General Assembly and Urban Commission)
- director of Tristar Housing (now part of Thirteen), Know How North East, Durham Tees Valley Airport Ltd., and Teesside Environmental Trust.

Under his dynamic leadership, the far-reaching beneficial friendship between the Council and Durham University was established – with the “leading alternative to Oxford and Cambridge” going on to develop its Queen’s Campus (1992) site in the Borough with its two colleges and the Wolfson Research Institute (2001) – raising the profile and reputation of the area and attracting some of the ‘brightest and best’ students from across the UK, Europe and the world.

The significance of his outstanding contribution to Local Government in the North East literally received the royal seal of approval in the Queen’s 2006 New Year Honours when he became Robert Gibson Officer of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (OBE).

Ultimately, Robert Gibson had invested a significant proportion of his life as a faithful and loyal servant to this community, this Council and this borough - enhancing its profile, its reputation and putting in place solid foundations for its future success and development which made him an ideal candidate for consideration to receive the Freedom of the Borough.

RESOLVED that:-

1. The Freedom of the Borough of Stockton be conferred upon Bob Gibson OBE.
2. His name be placed on the Roll of Honorary Freeman of the Borough.
3. Bob Gibson OBE be presented with a sealed and illuminated copy of the Resolution at the meeting of Council to be held on 25th November 2015.
