

22nd July 2015 - 24th August 2015

652 Responses

Q1. Do you agree that properties should be advertised any day of the week?

Yes	538	82.52%
No	77	11.81%
Unsure	36	5.52%
Blank	1	0.15%

Q2. Do you agree that properties can be advertised on a continuous cycle if there is no demand?

Yes	585	89.72%
No	33	5.06%
Unsure	28	4.29%
Blank	6	0.92%

Q3. Do you agree that when a property has been advertised for a week and there have been no bids that landlords can allocate to the next customer who meets the criteria?

Yes	547	83.90%
No	51	7.82%
Unsure	50	7.67%
Blank	4	0.61%

Q4. Do you agree that the restriction on the number of bids you can place (currently 3) should be removed so customers can bid on as many available properties as they wish?

Yes	481	73.77%
No	120	18.40%
Unsure	46	7.06%
Blank	5	0.77%

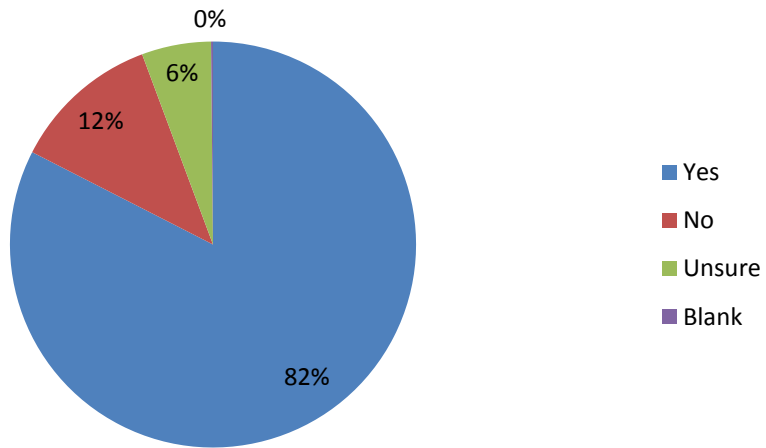

Q5. Do you agree that customers should be asked to provide more detail on all their areas of choice and property requirements so that an automatic bid can be triggered and therefore ensuring that they do not miss out on an offer of accommodation?

Yes	479	73.47%
No	91	13.96%
Unsure	75	11.50%
Blank	7	1.07%

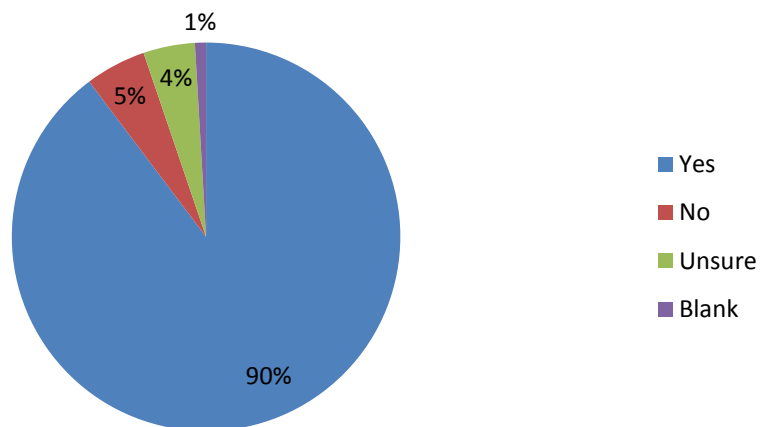

Q6. Do you agree if a property is immediately available to let that the landlord can make an immediate allocation by creating a shortlist directly from Compass using the automatic bid facility as described in question 5 (Note – the shortlist will still be in order of priority)?

Yes	447	68.56%
No	101	15.49%
Unsure	101	15.49%
Blank	3	0.46%

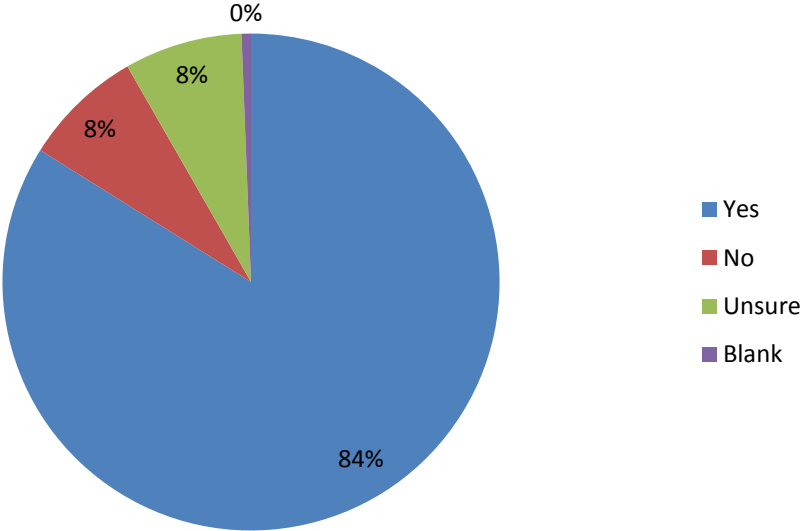

Q1. Do you agree that properties should be advertised any day of the week?

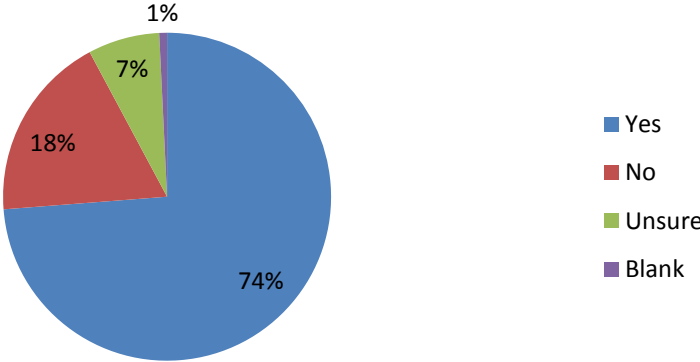

Q2. Do you agree that properties can be advertised on a continuous cycle if there is no demand?

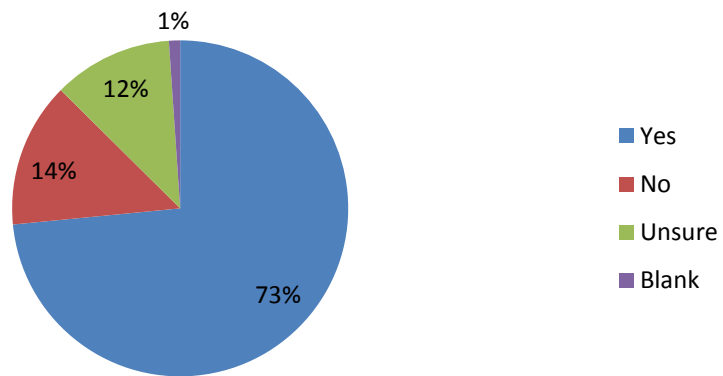

Q3. Do you agree that when a property has been advertised for a week and there have been no bids that landlords can allocate to the next customer who meets the criteria?

Q4. Do you agree that the restriction on the number of bids you can place (currently 3) should be removed so customers can bid on as many available properties as they wish?

Q5. Do you agree that customers should be asked to provide more detail on all their areas of choice and property requirements so that an automatic bid can be triggered and therefore ensuring that they do not miss out on an offer of accommodation?

Q6. Do you agree if a property is immediately available to let that the landlord can make an immediate allocation by creating a shortlist directly from Compass using the automatic bid facility as described in question 5

